Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

This communication is responsive to the amendment filed 3/15/2005.

Claim 2 is pending in this application. Claim 2 is an independent claim. In the amendment filed 3/15/2005, Claim 2 was amended. This action is made Non-Final.

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

The Examiner believes the specification lacks enablement with respects to the following claim limitations, "retrieving a frame from the second video clip" and "displaying the new frame to an observer in real-time prior to processing subsequent frames from the first video clip and the second video clip".

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

Art Unit: 2174

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Foreman et al. (US 6628303) in view of Fairhurst (US 5986717).

In regards to claim 2, Foreman teaches a computer software device to be executed by a computer for displaying a video in real-time, the computer software comprising instructions for: receiving a user instruction to apply a transition between a first video clip and a second video clip (Figure 10, Element 192); retrieving a frame from the first video clip (Figure 17E); retrieving a frame from the second video clip (Figure 17E); applying the transition effect to the frame from the first video clip and the second frame from the second video clip to compose a new frame (Figure 17E); and repeating the instructions above for the subsequent frames (Figure 10, Element 192, The user can add more than one effect and between the different effects, the user can preview the current work before moving on to the next effect).

Art Unit: 2174

Foreman does not specifically teach displaying the new frame to an observer in real-time prior to processing subsequent frames from the first video clip and the second video clip. Fairhurst teaches, "A real-time video production technique using recursive techniques adds an output framestore, a feedback storage unit and a synchronized controller to a pipelined video processing system. Partial composites are stored in the feedback storage unit while complete composites are stored in the output framestore. The output framestore provides a preview video during the video processing."

(Abstract). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify Foreman with the teachings of Fairhurst and provide a preview of the compiled frames before they are all processed with the motivation to provide the user with a faster preview of the final result.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 2 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Inquiry

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Boris Pesin whose telephone number is (571) 272-4070. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday-Friday except every other Friday.
